

Abstract

Epitrack is a two-part software system built to enable better tracking of diseases and epidemics in the global south. It consists of a lightweight Android app to be used by community health workers in the field to submit case information, and a central database server which can be easily deployed on a budget cloud server. The central database can be accessed through a web browser by health officers to view and analyse disease case reports and trends.